MICHENER LEADS ATTACK BOLDLY, BUT HE HAS NO DEFINITE POLICY TO GIVE

Taking up Each Paragraph from the Speech from the Throne, He Criticises and Condemns the Government for Its Failure to Deal With Questions He Considers of Utmost Importance to the People.

Despite the inclement weather, there was a large number of visitors in attendance at the opening of the legisture this afternoon to hear what the leader of the opposition, Mr. Michener, had to say regarding the policy of the administration as outlined in the speech from the throne. It was the First utterance from the opposition side of the chamber during the present session, and usually there was considerable speculation as to what would be said.

The members were slow in assenting, and it was after 2 o'clock when the sergeant-at-arms called for order. The galleries were well filled and the stage setting was appropriate.

The omission of all reference in the speech from the throne regarding the momentous question of the Alberta and Great Waterways solution was entirely surprising to the opposition, he said, and was "highly surprising in the annals of"

DOUBTFUL ABOUT BURNING OIL IN NAVAL VESSELS

With an Ample Coal Supply
Great Britain Questions Benefit of Change.

FIELDS ARE LIMITED
AND THE PERILS MANY

Asiatic Fuel Would Have to Come by Suez Canal and Run the Gauntlet of the Fleet of the Japanese.

London, Sept. 18.—Since steam was introduced for ships, and ships for wooden ones, the British navy has undergone no more drastic change than its plans to adopt oil for fuel in the place of coal.

All naval men and scientists recognize the fact, and the authorities made to parliament by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, has aroused a debate which involves the future safety of the United Kingdom. The scientific men seem to agree that oil is the naval fuel of the future, but the question asked is whether Britain should lead the nations to that fuel.

She was the pioneer in building
Dreadnoughts, but some authorities hold that the Dreadnought was a colossal mistake, and that the era of the mammoth ships and resulting enormous battleships might have been avoided if the strongest naval power had not led the way and forced her rivals to follow.

Whether an island kingdom, with a world's supply of coal to draw upon in the island which is its "naval base," should abandon coal for another form of fuel, all of which must be imported from abroad, is the vital point of discussion. There are no oil fields in the United Kingdom, and few in the British empire. The North American continent and the far east, principally Borneo and Burma, would have to be the main sources of supply, with some help from Romania and the British island of Trinidad.

Her Oil Cargoes in Peril Asiatic oil must be shipped through the Suez, and the Mediterranean, where it would have to run the gauntlet of the Japanese fleet in the first stage, of the Journey, in the event of possible wars,
and then pass through the Turkish Straits, where British naval power is steadily declining as Italian and Austrian building programs progress. The oil must be brought across the Atlantic, where the American fleet, in the hands of the German and perhaps the German at the end, would have to be reckoned with.

The advantages of oil are set forth attractively by the naval expert of the Daily Mail Gazette. The complements
of vessels could be increased by giving up stokers, and the increasing difficulty of obtaining enough men therby met. There would be larger space for other living space for the men on ships, and the hard and dirty work of coaling ships would be no more.
Strategic possibilities of war vessels would be increased by greater speed and secrecy of movement.

On the other hand London papers ask the admiralty certain pointed questions. Can they guarantee that there will be adequate sources of supply open in all parts of the world at all times? Can they control sufficient forces of supply to render the navy independent of monopolies and trade men of most of them controlled by foreigners?

Hard to Figure on Future Can sufficient storage be provided for safe from attack, to supply the navy for at least three months and can sufficient stores be kept at strategic locations in other parts of the world.
It is established beyond doubt that oil thus stored will not deteriorate and that the oil stored will not deteriorate.

Mr. Churchill said that if the navy can protect the island's food supply it can protect its oil supply; that the admiralty intends to acquire the ownership or control of a considerable portion of the oil fields in the empire and to provide for a "safe" reserve against the contingency of war, and that the possibilities of distilling oil from coal were under discussion.

Mr. Churchill's proposal of British oil supply with the food supply is criticized on the ground that food in case of need may be brought from many different parts while the oil will be at a few fixed stations only. Another criticism is that the world's future supply of oil, and the life time of the present sources of supply are factors which cannot be estimated. Lord Charles Darnley says the whole project is a huge "gamble" which may prove disastrous.

SWISS WILL ATTEMPT TO CONVERT GYPSIES

Clergyman Has Idea He Can Solve Problem of Handling These Nomadic Pagans

Paris, Sept. 18.—One hundred gypsies, with neither home nor country, move across France, but still every year they wander the beginning of summer. Nowhere are they wanted, everywhere they are eyed askance, but still every year they wander and the authorities of the countries they cross are not eager to have them when they go.

There is always trouble at the frontiers.
Here the wanderers are stopped, questioned and often imprisoned as vagrants. But there is nothing to do but turn them back and they invariably return the next year. An effort is being made to convert the gypsies, and incidentally the perplexed authorities, is being made by a Swiss clergyman, M. Kreyer.

He has organized a society one of the purpose of which is to assist the gypsies in the Christian religion, for these nomadic peoples, the "Gypsies of the East," are pagan. However, it is considered very an uncertain

"POISON BRACELET" AS A MASCOOT.

(Mrs. Glair McMillan.)
New York, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Glair
McMillan, former wife of General
Oddie of Nevada, and cousin of "Uncle Joe" Gannon, has what is probably the most peculiar lucky charm in the world—a "poison bracelet." It would not think of making a journey by train or boat without taking my poisonous mascoot along as a charm against danger," said Mrs. McMillan. The bracelet is a hollow ringlet of gold, filled with a mixture of opium. She says the bracelet was put to her by a friend who was a passenger in a train running between Toronto and San Francisco which was almost totally wrecked by a loose rail. "It was spashed out on the desert, but sustained only a few trifling scratches," narrates Mrs. Mc-Millan.

The advantages of oil are set forth
attractively by the naval expert of the Daily Mail Gazette. The complements
of vessels could be increased by
giving up stokers, and the increasing difficulty of obtaining enough men
therby met. There would be larger

WELSH WILL SUE WHILE RITCHIE BREACH CONTRACT

Will Appear in Ring in Vancouver at Hour Appointed for Bout Ready to Fight

THEN DEMAND FORFEIT
OF $2,500 AND DAMAGES

Welsh Says He Lost Out on a Number of Remunerative Matches by Waiting for Fight With Ritchie.

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—As an aftermath of the Welsh-Ritchie lightweight championship boxing contest scheduled for next Saturday, but which was called off when Welsh made his hasty retreat to San Francisco, there will be a legal action taken by Freddie Welsh against the champion for damages for breach of contract.

Welsh, through his manager, Harry Pollack, stated yesterday that he would be at the Britannia Arms next Saturday afternoon at the hour named in the official agreement of the contest and in the presence of Al Hager, the official stakeholder, will await in accordance to the conditions specified at 430 pounds at 12:15 o'clock. Then he will stick around for an hour till the time the bout is to have taken place, crawl through the ropes, shadowbox against an imaginary Ritchie, declare himself winner, claim the world's title and then hike to his lawyers to start the legal machinery work with which he hopes to get the money from Ritchie. Welsh will file claims to the forfeit of $2,500 for appearance which Ritchie posted by a San Francisco check, but which the champion was careful to stop at the bank, and will also ask for damages. He claims that he has been cheated out of a number of remunerative matches through having to stick around here waiting for Ritchie.

Had A Terrible Attack OF DIARRHOEA BUT DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY CURED HER.

Mrs. Jacob Smith, Manor, Sask., writes: "I am pleased to express my gratitude for your remedy in my case. I had a terrible attack of Diarrhoea. Just about every three hours I would have a passage, and it would keep this up for a week at a time, causing the passage of bloody water. I was so tired and weak, I could not do anything. Seeing your Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry recommended, I tried it, and it thoroughly cured me. It is the only medicine I will now have for this complaint."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for over 65 years, and is known from one end of Canada to the other as a certain cure for all blood and summer complaints.

When you ask for "Dr. Fowler's" be sure and get it, as there are many imitations.

The genuine is manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price, 35 cents.

Deacon's Eskimo Rugby Team Strikes Rich Vein of Pep.

Favorable Reversal of Form Shown in Last Night's Practice Both in Tackling and Scrimmage Work One More Hard Practice Before Saturday Game.

Culliton who starred on the team last year is showing more speed than ever this year and will no doubt be one of the main stars in Saturday's game. Amongst other men who are showing up well are Roberts, Wilson, Bailey Stewart and Campbell.

Reports from Calgary indicate that Coach Lyons has a strong aggression in the players and is in full confidence of winning the game.

The Eskimo rugby squad went through a strenuous practice at Edmonton park last night and by installing a little more pep into their work were able to bring a relieved look to Coach White's worried countenance.

Some fine points in the game art of tackling were pointed out to the squad and tried out on that unfortunate individual, the dummy.

A great deal of speed showed up in the scrimmages and running down on punts and it began to look as if the Tigers were not going to be able to romp home with the game Saturday with any great ease.

SPECTACULAR GOLF IN BROOKLYN PLAY

Ray, the English Amateur, Surpasses Brilliance of Harry Vardon.

Brooklyn, Mass., Sept. 18.—A field of 60 qualified golfers began play over the famous country club course here this morning, in pursu of the 1918 annual open championship of the United States golf association. The contest in this country has such a brilliant field assembled to go through the ropes, shadowbox against an imaginary Ritchie, declare himself winner, claim the world's title and then hike to his lawyers to start the legal machinery work with which he hopes to get the money from Ritchie. Welsh will file claims to the forfeit of $2,500 for appearance which Ritchie posted by a San Francisco check, but which the champion was careful to stop at the bank, and will also ask for damages. He claims that he has been cheated out of a number of remunerative matches through having to stick around here waiting for Ritchie.

COBB'S VALUE HARD TO PLACE

Some Figures on How Much He Is Worth in Dollars to His Club.

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB

Age 27
Height 5 ft 10 in Weight 180
Occupation Baseball
Value Almost anything—plus

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The latest story about a deal by which Ty Cobb, the greatest of baseball players, was to be "sold" from Detroit to New York was told recently. This time the figure named happened to be $10,000. Hugley Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, insisted when he heard the story. So enquiries were sent to the other end. The question was put to Frank Farrell, owner of the Yankees, the American League team, in New York. "No, I haven't bought Cobb for $10,000," he said. "I can't buy him for $10,000. I haven't bought him at all. But I'd like to get a chance to buy him for 40 or 50 or 60 thousand."

And the word "basing" as these managers used it, does not mean buying a player, but it means leasing him, giving the privilege of hiring the player.

Value in Six Figures

Cobb is valued, roughly, at $256,000. His salary is $12,500 a year, which is 4.9 per cent interest on $256,000. The total is reached by adding $66,000, the amount which Frank Farrell said he would pay for Cobb's services. The much higher figure if Cobb were auctioned off among the big league owners, and the amount which he would be worth to his club, the Yankees, would be $1,000,000.

Cobb is a sort of baseball machine. He is sensitive as a burglar alarm to every pulse of the game. The shifting of a pitcher's feet, an altered angle of the back of a stopping second baseman, the look in the eyes of a pitcher or a base runner—all these are like telegrams to the brain of Cobb. And he plays mostly with his brains.

All the baseball writers have said that Cobb is the greatest player an earth in these branches of endeavor, to wit:

Batting.
Pitching.
Fielding.
Base running.
Sliding.

Makes Three Bases on Single

For balance on one memorable occasion, when Cobb was at first base and the batter batted out a single, Cobb went home on the play. It was not that he could run three times as fast as the man who had made the hit. The difference was that Cobb seemed to know all about the hit in advance. He knew the batter, and he saw how the ball fell the pitcher's hand. He saw that there was going to be a hit—and so he ran.

Cobb is one of the best-known men in America. "No well known man" is one of his admirers, "that they didn't put him in 'Who's Who,' because everybody knew him anyway."

Business men call their office boys "Ty" when they wish to be complimentary, and compare themselves with Cobb when they think they have shown exceptional cunning in some deal.

IGNITION TROUBLE

"Ignition trouble in a car fitted with a high tension magneto may be due to unclean oil, metallic particles or carbon in the distributor," says Emil Grossman, manufacturer of the Red Head spark plugs. "The brushes may not be in contact, or the breaker points out of adjustment, worn dirty or pitted. There may be defective winding, the field magnets weak, the magneto driving gear loose, or the magneto out of time."

YOUNGEST SPONSOR TO CHRISTEN NEVADA.

Beno, Nev., Sept. 18.—Miss Eleanor Siebert, the ten year old daughter of Fred J. Siebert, one of the state's biggest mining engineers, will win the distinction of being the youngest United States battleship sponsor when she christens the new Dreadnought Nevada on October 1. A crusade has been against the traditional bottle of champagne with which ships have been christened since Noah built the Ark. It has been suggested that a bottle of pure Nevada mineral water be used instead, but the question has not yet been determined.

TODAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS.

1886—John L. Sullivan knocked out Frank Herald in the second round at Allegheny, Pa. The fighter with the journalistic name had been touted as a classless proposition, and just the guy to annex the title, which the "Boston Strong Boy" had won four years before. The fight was a joke. Sullivan spent the first round in feeling out his opponent, and in the second went in and polished him off thoroughly. A little later John L. went to San Francisco and took on his old enemy, Paddy Ryan, who had been champion until a certain day in 1882, when he lost his laurels to Sullivan at Mississippi. Paddy landed nine rounds in the first bout, but at San Francisco Sullivan sent him to dreamland in the third.

1912—Young Jack O'Brien defeated Young Brown in 10 rounds at New York.

1912—Jim Kendrick, of England, defeated Patsy Drannigan in 10 rounds at New York.

FIRST THINGS.

WASHINGTON CAPITAL.

The first Capital at Washington was commenced 129 years ago today, when President Washington laid the corner stone of the edifice which was to be the centre of government in the new federal city. Only the north wing was completed when the seat of government was transferred in 1800 to the new village in a wilderness. This wing was fitted up to accommodate both houses of Congress. A path through an area was swung led from the President's house to the Capitol. The latter building was ill adapted to its purpose, and the disaster of the law makers almost resulted in the removal of the Capital back to Philadelphia. Except for the opposition of the southern members, the resolution would have passed. The first Capitol was burned when the British occupied Washington in 1814, and was replaced by a more satisfactory edifice.

"PEERLESS LEADER" CHANCE

PAUSES 24th MILESTONE

Frank Levy Chance will pass his 24th milestone tomorrow, but, up to the minute of rushing to press, the mayors of New York and Fresno have neglected to issue proclamations declaring Chance's birthday public holiday. The Gotham fans, who revere the "Peerless Leader" with almost of joy when he took charge of the Yankees last spring, have become fed up and impatient in their wavering allegiance. Chance's first season as pilot of the New York Americans, ushered in with such high hopes, has ended in defeat and disaster. And yet, such is Chance's popularity, the evil demons has not yet sounded. The powerful appeal of a glorious past still retains its potency to silence doubters.

The man who made a millionnaire out of the mellifluous Murphy, the pudgy possessor of the Cuba, was born in Fresno, Cal., September 19th, 1879. He joined the Cubs as catcher and utility outfielder in 1898, and continued to play these positions until 1902. Frank Selke, who built up the wonderful Cub machine which Chance later inherited, decided that Frank would make a good first baseman, and his opinion was fully justified by subsequent developments. For eight years he was the class of the National League on the initial bag, and during the first half of that period he scatted over 300. When Selke retired in 1905, and the Cubs were sold to Murphy, the latter appointed Chance manager. By winning four pennants and two world's championships, he has demonstrated his right to the title of "Peerless Leader."

As the pilot of the Highlanders and the highest-saluted manager in the game, Chance has not been a brilliant success. He has not had much material to work with, as fell to him in Chicago as a legacy from Frank Selke. Personal winning baseball teams are of slow growth. McGraw's first season as chief of the Giants was not much more successful than Chance's initial year with the Yankees.

Whatever his baseball future, Frank Chance faces no financial worries. He is a member in good standing of the "I Should Worry" Club, and the owner of income-bearing property worth in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

THAT TOOK TIME

"Why do you keep me waiting on this corner two hours?" demanded the frail husband. "You said you were merely going to stop in to see how Mrs. Gable was."

"Well, she insisted on telling me."—Kansas City Journal
